

COMMERCIAL.

HONOLULU, MAY 1, 1888.

The receipts of sugar from domestic ports during the week were 27,700 bags.

The shipments to San Francisco hence, amounted to $58,640 and from Hilo, $17,000—total $75,640.

The Weekly Financial Circular, issued in New York as an impartial exponent of business interests, says:

The tariff question is an unwelcome matter of opportunity, and the prospect hardly favors the early passage of any law. The Mills bill, as presented by the full Ways and Means Committee on Thursday last, has many features to recommend it. It provides for necessary reductions of the tariff, and probably offers as little disturbance to established business interests as any that could be devised. It has been drafted with this special end in view, and ought, out of regard to business interests alone, to be pushed to an early passage. But unfortunately their political considerations often overrule all others in the estimation of our worthy representatives at Washington, and this being a Presidential year, the prospects for speedy action are all the more remote. The Democrats being divided, the Republicans are not likely to very actively support a measure for which they themselves would rather receive the credit should the measure prove popular.

The S. P. Mills of April 1st gives the following report of delicacies in the market:

Snipe are very scarce and worth $5 a dozen. Mallard ducks are very scarce and in poor condition.

Cassarecks are out of the market.

Wild geese are in fair supply and are worth $1 a dozen.

Turkeys are advancing in price; they are now worth 30 cents a pound.

In chickens, broilers are worth $1 each, and for roasting $1.25.

Beef birds are a delicacy and worth 50 cents a dozen.

Mushrooms are plentiful, but choice kinds cost 35 cents a pound.

Cucumbers grown under glass are very choice and make an exquisite relish. They cost 30 cents apiece.

Genuine new potatoes are 8 cents a pound. Los Angeles tomatoes are very choice and cost 35 cents a pound.

Oranges—such as the Washington Navel, Mediterranean Sweet, Saint Michael's and Kohala from Riverside, and the Mandarin from Japan—are in fine condition, but very scarce and price high.

Oranges are bringing higher prices in San Francisco than they are in Chicago.

Mangoes are a delicacy and cost 75 cents a dozen.

Pineapples are scarce and sell $1 each.

Ripe bananas are very scarce and the price is consequently high.

String beans are worth 50 cents a pound.

The fish market is the first time during Lent, has been well supplied.

All ocean and river fish are plentiful.

Rock fish, snails, salmon and halibut are in full supply.

Frogs are cheaper than last week, and are now selling $4 a dozen.

Terrapins are also lower, and are now worth $4 a dozen.

Oysters and mussels are not in as good order as last week. The supply has also fallen off.

Eggs are worth from 25 cents to 30 cents a dozen.

The marine reporter of the Advertiser was navigating a barge on Merchant street on Friday, when he missed ways and took a header to the great amusement of many brown-eyed belles along that thoroughfare.

The bark Willie McLaren, hence for Puget Sound on April 23d, was loading the reef too close near Barber's Point, and might have gone ashore but for the friendly warning of Captain Macaulay of the steamer James Makee.

The British ship Ellipsoid, 2,355 tons, now lying at Oakland and recently chartered to go to Port Gamble and load lumber there for Hobson's Bay, is the largest vessel ever bound for Puget Sound, and will have the largest cargo of lumber ever carried on a vessel from the Sound.

The British bark Alice Mary, Captain Law, arrived Wednesday, 30 days from Newcastle, N. S. W., with 47 tons coal consigned to Wilder & Co. This is the fourth collier arrived from the same port in four days, all of which left within a few days of each other. The Alice Mary had good weather but had to encounter rough seas, and took the northeast trades and came south of New Zealand and east of the Low Archipelago.

She therefore sailed ten or twelve hundred miles more than the other vessels referred to. The Alice Mary is a well-built English bark, copper-fastened throughout, and is especially fitted for the trade. She will sail hence for Baker's Island to load guano for Tasmania.
